Our mother, grandmother and friend, we rejoice in our strength, our love and our faith in you with a smile that was everlasting. Although your borrowed time here on earth has come and passed our hearts ache at the present time, but we know that there is no more suffering and pain will ease our minds. We will carry on what you have instilled in us to keep God first in all ways in acknowledge him and he shall direct our path. We love our mother and always stick together. As you have guided your wings and were here to be with our Heavenly Father, we can hear you singing as you walked through the gates, "I Found Me A Church". You are wearing that long white robe and you're wearing it well. We will miss you every day, every minute, every second.
